Praying for Wick and Kingley Gate – Road of the Week: Clun Road.

Dear Lord, We place the name of Jesus over Clun Road – all who live, work and travel there. May they know the light of your presence, the joy of your peace and the hope of your guidance. We ask this in Jesus' powerful name. Amen.

Break my heart for what breaks yours? Jesus' call in Luke 10:37 is simple yet radical: "Go and do likewise." The Good Samaritan didn't just feel compassion, he acted. Kingdom compassion crosses boundaries, takes risks, and costs us something. The Greek word often translated as compassion in the Gospels is spagchnizomai—a word that sounds odd to our ears but carries deep, visceral meaning. It literally refers to the inward parts, the guts—the seat of emotion in ancient thought. When Jesus sees the crowds and is moved with compassion, the word used is spagchnizomai. It tells us He didn't just feel pity from a distance. No, He was moved in His very being. His stomach churned with love and grief for the broken. As disciples who are coming to more deeply know, love and follow Jesus, we're called to true compassion like this; not mere sentiment, but a suffering with the other. It's a divine empathy that leads to action. And isn't that the heart of the Gospel? That Christ saw our suffering, entered into it, and bore it Himself. Real compassion doesn't stay passively coming to church—it moves us to intentionally be the church when we leave the building, to enter the pain of others, just as Jesus did.

BIBLE READING

Luke 10: 25-37

25 On one occasion an expert in the law stood up to test Jesus. 'Teacher,' he asked, 'what must I do to inherit eternal life?' 26 'What is written in the Law?' he replied. 'How do you read it?' 27 He answered, "'Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind"; and, "Love your neighbour as yourself."' 28 'You have answered correctly,' Jesus replied. 'Do this and you will live.' 29 But he wanted to justify himself, so he asked Jesus, 'And who is my neighbour?' 30 In reply Jesus said: 'A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, when he was attacked by robbers. They stripped him of his clothes, beat him and went away, leaving him half-dead. 31 A priest happened to be going down the same road, and when he saw the man, he passed by on the other side. 32 So too, a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side. 33 But a Samaritan, as he travelled, came where the man was; and when he saw him, he took pity on him. 34 He went to him and bandaged his wounds, pouring on oil and wine. Then he put the man on his own donkey, brought him to an inn and took care of him. 35 The next day he took out two denarii and gave them to the innkeeper. "Look after him," he said, "and when I return, I will reimburse you for any extra expense you may have." 36 'Which of these three do you think was a neighbour to the man who fell into the hands of robbers?' 37 The expert in the law replied, 'The one who had mercy on him.' Jesus told him, 'Go and do likewise.'

Not on the electoral roll?... but please can we pray for you?

Back in April we undertook to pray every week for one year for everyone at All Saints and many of you are involved by committing five people to prayer. BUT we want everyone included and the list only extended to those whose names are on the electoral roll. Please get in touch if you are not on the electoral roll but All Saints is your home and you would like to be prayed for weekly. The aim is that each of us is praying blessing and favour and God's grace on five people at All Saints, while we ourselves are covered in prayers of blessing by the person praying for us. Email Lisa if you would like to be added.

Praying the News: Rather than switching off the news, consider praying for each news story for we are called to bring the world and it's needs to God in prayer.

Praying for our Church family: This week we give thanks to God and pray for all those involved in the front line of welcome. May we all join in with the warm welcome of others – those we know, those who are not like us and those who are new or we don't know!
